CHRISTMAS AT CHURCHES

Elaborate Musical Programmes That Have Been Prepared.

SOME TO BE RENDERED SUNDAY

Numbers That Will Be Heard at Penn Avenue Baptist and Elm Park Churches—Grand Italian Mass Will Be Sung at Cathedral.

Elaborate musical programmes will be notable features of the Christmas services in the city churches. Efforts are being made by those in charge to eclipse the records of past years.

The music committee of Penn Avenue Baptist church has arranged the following programme for Sunday next, when a special choir of twenty-five, under the leadership of John T. Watkins, will provide a musical treat. At the morning service the following anthems will be rendered: "The Shepherd" (Holden), "Before the Heavens were Spread Abroad" (Parker), and Sir Joseph Barnby's great composition, "The First Christmas," including (a) The Annunciation, (b) The Shepherds, (c) Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin, and (d) The Gloria in Excelsis. At the evening service the anthems will be: "When Jesus was Born at Bethlehem," and "Brightest and Best." The solos, duets, trios and quartets will be capably sustained by Miss Susie Black, of Nicholson; Will Watkins, of Peckville; George DeWitt, Howell, Davis, Miss Margaret Jones and Mrs. M. J. Boston Williams. The instrumental selections given by a large orchestra will be: Offertory No. 3 and No. 4 for organ by Wely, Haydn's "Creation," and Gounod's "Patriotic March" for organ and orchestra.

Holy communion will be celebrated at Grace Reformed church at 10:30 o'clock on Christmas morning when the choir, which has been rehearsing for some time, will present a good and appropriate programme of music.

At Elm Park Church.

Professor Carter has well-earned reputation at the Elm Park church, when the highly-trained and talented quartette will render selections from the "Messiah" at the evening service. Llew Herbert has often been heard to great advantage in oratorio music, and there is no doubt that the majestic music of the "Messiah" will receive the best of treatment from this celebrated quartette.

At St. Peter's cathedral the following excellent musical service has been arranged by Professor W. P. Schilling and will be rendered at the 10:30 o'clock mass Christmas morning. A chorus of twenty-five voices, assisted by Bauer's orchestra of fifteen pieces, will sing the grand Italian mass by the joint authors, Rossini, Bellini and Donizetti. The soprano solos will be rendered by Mrs. Schilling, and the other numbers will be given by trained members of the choir. Selections will also be given from Haydn's "Creation." The offertory voluntary will be "The Adagio Pielde" as arranged by Novello. The whole service will be of the elaborate nature which characterizes the Christmas services at this cathedral.

The services at St. Luke's church on Sunday and Christmas day will be fully choral. J. Willis Conant, organist, has arranged an admirable programme for each day, and the selections are from the best composers. The choir, which is an admirable one, is at present splendidly trained and will provide a rich treat of sacred music.

At the church of the Good Shepherd, Green Ridge, Christmas day will be ushered in by a celebration of the holy communion. At the morning service on Christmas day the service will be fully choral.

At St. David's Episcopal church communion will be celebrated at 6 a. m. and 10:30 a. m., when a full choral service will be rendered under the leadership of John Morris, who has prepared some excellent numbers. Miss Mamie Eisinger, the organist, will play appropriate voluntaries at both services.

Professor Charles F. Whitmore has arranged a grand programme of music for Sunday next at the Green Ridge Presbyterian church. In the morning a large choir will render a full choral service under the auspices of the Bible class. In the evening the service will be fully choral, when the following anthems will be rendered: "Brightest and Best Are the Sons of the Morning," by Mrs. A. A. Hay and choir; "And There Were Shepherds," by J. C. Winke and choir; "Let Us Now Go Unto Bethlehem," by Miss E. J. Garrigan and choir; "Behold, I Bring You Glad Tidings," by W. H. Becker and choir.

At the introduction, Miss Salome M. Becker, organist, will play a prelude, "The Pilgrims' Chorus," and a grand triumphal march as a postlude.

On the West Side, the choir of St. Patrick's church, numbering thirty-five voices, will render Mozart's Seventh Mass at 6 a. m. and 10:30 a. m. masses on Christmas Day. Professor Haydn Evans, who has spared no effort in rehearsal, will be away from home, and Professor Thomas, of Carbondale, will preside at the organ, while William E. Evans will direct. The quartette will comprise Mrs. K. Sullivan, soprano; Miss Kate Saul, contralto; J. Peeney, tenor, and J. Connelly, bass. Miss Harriet Ward will assist with the violin.

Music will predominate at the services of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal church, Green Ridge, on Sunday, when several selections of Christmas music will be rendered by the church choir.

The popular service of song, "Christ Our King," will be rendered at the Green Ridge Primitive Methodist church by the Sunday school children on Sunday evening.

At the Scranton Street Baptist church the Christmas Day services will be bright and interesting. In the morning the anthems, "Christ Was Born in Bethlehem" and "I Will Exult Thee," will be rendered by the choir, while Miss Via Jones and David Evans will sing appropriate solos. A special children's service will be held in the afternoon.

A special programme of music has been prepared by the committee of the Jackson Street Baptist church, including choruses by the various Sunday school classes and selections by the many clever musicians of the church. The service will be held on Christmas evening and William B. Owen will direct the choir.

Professor William W. Jones has trained a choir of thirty voices which will present a splendid programme at

Davies, and at the morning service will include the anthems, "Break Forth Into Joy" and "The Hallowed Day." P. H. Warren will sing "The Nativity" and "The Nativity," and Miss Catherine Gabriel will render the duet, "Hail! Lo the Monarch." In the evening service the Vesper Christmas service, "Christ the Lord," will be presented. The numbers will be as follows: Ladies' chorus, "List, the Crucial Host," with tones by A. R. Gaul; solo, "I Will Exult Thee," by Mrs. D. D. Lewis; contralto solo, "It Came on the Night Clear," by Miss Minnie Parry Thomas; quartette, "The Radiant Morn," solo, "Once in Royal David's City," Miss Catherine Gabriel; anthem, "I Come, O Blessed Saviour," Miss Ruth B. PENSION SHARP ARRESTED

Government Detectives Find Stephen G. Tillinghast, of This City, HIDING IN PROVIDENCE, R. I.

Deputy Marshal Robling, of Scranton, and Detective Schuckers, of Wilkes-Barre, Make Arrest—Case Adjudged by Commissioner Wilson.

For a daring series of frauds perpetrated upon the government and his clients, Stephen G. Tillinghast, formerly of this city, was arrested by government officers Wednesday in Providence, R. I. He had been in hiding in Providence, and upon his arrival here with the officers yesterday was given a hearing before United States Commissioner M. J. Wilson.

The capture of Tillinghast was made possible through the efforts of Pension Detective Schuckers, of Wilkes-Barre. Deputy United States Marshal Frank Robling, of Scranton, assisted in making the arrest and bringing Tillinghast to this city.

Tillinghast formerly boarded at 157 South Bromley avenue and for many years had been a book agent. His business carried him into all the small towns and sections of the county and he used his occupation as a quiet means of ascertaining persons whom he might defraud. His practice was to serve them as a pension claim agent and by forgery and other means succeeded in defrauding his clients as well as the government. A few months ago his practices were revealed through the correspondence of some of his clients with the pension department. In some manner he became aware that his speculations had been unheeded and disappeared.

Located in Providence.

All efforts to locate Tillinghast were unavailing until recently, when Detective Schuckers ascertained that the fugitive had relatives living in Providence. Further investigation revealed his hiding place in that city, where he was not only living under an assumed name, but was receiving mail through other parties and had taken other means to conceal his identity.

When arrested, Tillinghast broke down and made a partial confession to his captors.

Attorney R. H. Holgate appeared as the prisoner's counsel before Commissioner Wilson, and moved for his client's discharge on the ground that the dates upon which the information had been filed in Pittsburgh made the offense outlawed under the statutes. The commissioner refused the motion and, upon the suggestion of Detective Schuckers that a United States attorney should be present, adjourned the hearing until Friday, Dec. 23, at 11 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Holgate and J. Alton Davis became bondsmen in the sum of $1,000.

Commissioner Wilson explained that the hearing would have to be held before Commissioner Colburn in view of the fact that Tillinghast is his (Mr. Wilson's) uncle.
